Port Coquitlam Order Picker License - Order preparation operation or likewise called order picking as it is more normally known is a process used within warehouse operations and comprises employees called order pickers. The order picker's duty is to collect and take articles in certain quantities to complete the client's orders before shipment. Order picking is an easy warehousing process. The efficiency in which this particular task is completed can be directly linked to a supply chain's productivity. Thus, order picking is amongst the most controlled logistic processes. Order picking falls in the category of the warehouse management system.

There are some specific kinds of order picking. The main kinds include: wave picking method, pick to box method, picker to part method or piece picking, sorting systems method and zone picking method.

The pick to box method consists of the order picker just filling the boxes with things that are from their specific station. The box then moves on to other locations to until the order is done. In this particular process, there is no movement of the order picker personnel. In the wave picking method, the order pickers move all-around to collect the necessary items for some orders. The picker to part method or piece picking is similar where the order picker or pickers move in order to gather the stuff required but for one order only.

There is no movement by the order picker in the sorting systems method. Rather, things are delivered to the orderpicker by an automatic system like for instance a conveyor system or an automatic storage system. In the zone picking method, each and every order picker is assigned to one particular zone. They are responsible for only realizing order picking within this specific zone.
